Oreganik: Organic Soaps

CHALLENGE & SOLUTION

Prior to working with Oreganik they only had a Facebook page. They wanted a website to help elevate them within their market. Their organic products and a sense of play were identified as core brand attributes. Redesigning their logo came first to update their visual identity and improve their product packaging. A primary color palette and a font program was established and applied consistently across their website.

"Callahan takes on the role of a 'woman word warrior,' creating 'strong-hearted,' intelligent heroines and sensitive heroes who educate her audience about Muscogee culture, Indians' and women's rights, and the mutual respect between the sexes essential to happy marriages."

A. LaVonne Brown Ruoff

Originally published in 1891, Wynema is the first novel known to have been written by a woman of American Indian descent. Set against the sweeping and often tragic cultural changes that affected southeastern native peoples during the late nineteenth century, it tells the story of a lifelong friendship between two women from vastly different backgrounds—Wynema Harjo, a Muscogee Indian, and Genevieve Weir, a Methodist teacher from a genteel Southern family. Both are firm believers in women's rights and Indian reform; both struggle to overcome prejudice and correct injustices between sexes and races. Callahan uses the conventional traditions of a sentimental domestic romance to deliver an elegant plea for tolerance, equality, and reform.

WYNEMA: A CHILD OF THE FOREST

CHALLENGE & SOLUTION

Designing this book cover for the book, Wynema, A Child of the Forest, was challenging. It had to incorporate aspects of the book and honor the Muscogee Nation. My first concept wasn't successful. But, with feedback from the client I was able to pivot to my second idea that made stronger connections with the story.

PROBLEMA & SOLUCIÓN

Diseñar la portada para el libro Wynema, A Child of the Forest, fue un desafío. Tenía que incorporar aspectos del libro y honrar a la Nación Muscogee. Mi primer concepto no tuvo éxito. Pero, con los comentarios del cliente, pude cambiar a mi segunda idea que hizo conexiones más fuertes con la historia.

CHAPTER VI

AN INDIAN BURIAL

Years passed on with the same round of school duties for Genevieve Weir—duties crowned with joy and pride, as she watched the gradual unfolding of mind and soul to the touch of her magic wand—the influence of love opening doors that giant force could not set the least ajar. Wynema continued to be her greatest joy and pride and was more than ever her vade mecum, of whom she wrote often to her home friends.

“She learns faster and retains more of what she learns, than any child of whatever hue it has been my fortune to know. She is a constant reader and greets a new book with the warmth of a friend. I have directed her course of reading, and I venture to say, there is not a child in Mobile or anywhere else who has read less spurious matter than she. It is amusing to see her curl up over Dickens and Scott, and grow animated over Shakespeare, whose plays she lives out; and it is interesting to watch the different emotions, in sympathy with the various characters, chase each other over her face. Of the good ones she will say, ‘This is you, Mihia, but you are better.’ Dear child; would that I were as perfect as she believes me to be!”

One evening as Miss Weir and her pupil were returning from school, they heard strange sounds—such as groaning, wailing, lamenting and sobbing—proceeding from a cabin not far from the roadside; and Miss Weir turned to Wynema for explanation.

An Indian Burial

“Some one must be dead, and they are singing the death-chant,” said Wynema. “Mamma said Sam Emarthla was very sick—so I suppose—so I suppose it is that he is dead.” She always spoke brokenly when she was touched. “Shall it be that we may go and look upon the dead?”

“Yes, dear,” responded her teacher; “and it may be that we can speak a comforting word to the bereft ones. But tell me before we go in, what is the meaning of the death-chant.”

“The death-chant? How can I tell you, Mihia? It begins by telling the good deeds of the dead person; of his virtues; what a good hunter he was; how brave he always was; and ends by carrying him over the mountain side to the happy hunting-ground, there to live forever, among dogs and horses, with bows and arrows and game of all kinds in abundance.”

By the time she finished speaking they had reached the cabin door, and on looking in, they beheld the room full of sympathizing friends, who pushed aside and made an entrance for the new-comers.

Going up to the bed where the corpse lay dressed and decorated for burial, Genevieve found the stricken wife lying face downward on the breast of her dead husband.

Not a sound escaped her lips, for she seemed stunned by her grief. Here was no fashionable grief with its dress of sable hue, its hangings of crepe, and stationery with its inch-wide band of black, such as Madison-Square widows use. Ah! no, here was real, simple, heart-felt grief such as the ignorant and uneducated feel; grief such as Eve felt over the death of her well-beloved son.

SOBEER: A NON-ALCOHOLIC BEER

CHALLENGE & SOLUTION

The purpose of this project was creating a brand for a craft beer made in Oregon. I decided to work with a non-alcoholic variety to expand options in this more untapped market. My solution was to create a strong logotype combined with hand-rendered illustrations that form a background pattern referencing the different fruit flavors. The hand-rendered illustrations call back to the craft of brewing.

RETO & SOLUCIÓN

El propósito de este proyecto era crear una marca para una cerveza artesanal hecha en Oregon. Decidí trabajar con una variedad sin alcohol para ampliar las opciones en este mercado menos explotado. Mi solución fue crear un logotipo sólido combinado con ilustraciones hechas a mano que forman un patrón de fondo que hace referencia a los diferentes sabores de frutas. Las ilustraciones hechas a mano recuerdan el oficio de la elaboración de cerveza.

VIDA: VINYL & CD

CHALLENGE & SOLUTION

This project entailed creating artwork for album promotion. It was an interesting mix of old and new attempting a vinyl album for a contemporary pop band. I focused on typography and illustration. Inspired by geometric figures, I simulated confetti and breaking glass referencing to the rhythm of the album. This also led to developing an animated version, that could be used for promoting the album.

RETO & SOLUCIÓN

Este proyecto implicó la creación de ilustraciones para la promoción del álbum. Fue una mezcla interesante de lo antiguo y lo nuevo intentar un álbum de vinilo para una banda de pop contemporánea. Me concentré en la tipografía y la ilustración. Inspirándome en figuras geométricas, simulé confeti y cristales rotos haciendo referencia al ritmo del álbum. Esto también llevó al desarrollo de una versión animada, que podría usarse para promocionar el álbum.

BEAU: LIPSTICKS

CHALLENGE & SOLUTION

This package design project involved rigorous research, process, time management, and precision. For this process, I choose to execute a minimalist design, using line illustration, with the accent color of the lipstick referred to. My concept besides being minimal was inspired by creating perfect lips, regardless of the race of the person who wears it.

RETO & SOLUCIÓN

Este proyecto de diseño de paquetes involucró una investigación rigurosa, procesos, administración del tiempo y precisión. Para este proceso opte por ejecutar un diseño minimalista, usando ilustración de líneas, con el acento de color del labial referido. Mi concepto aparte de ser mínimo. El diseño del paquete está inspirado en los labios perfectos, sin importar raza de la persona que lo porte.
